

Title I

Targeted Assistance Program

Targeted Assistance Program:

When a school becomes a Title I school, the school must operate a Targeted Assistance program for two years. During these two years, the additional funds are used to focus on a targeted group of students the school has identified. After implementing the Targeted Assistance program for two years, the school may choose to operate a Schoolwide Program by developing a Schoolwide plan.

How does the Targeted Assistance program benefit my child?

The program provides additional funds to support the achievement of students at-risk of not achieving state standards by providing targeted students with:

- 1) extended learning opportunities using small group instruction and access to supplemental resources.

What are the requirements of this grant?

In addition to spending the funds for student achievement of targeted students, the school also has a parent involvement obligation amount that must be spent on parent involvement activities for parents of Targeted Assistance students.

These activities should build:
parent capacity to assist in their child's education,
parent-school communication, and parent, school, and community partnerships.

What are my rights as a parent?

Parents are encouraged to:
provide input on the development of the Parent Involvement Plan and Home-School Compact;
provide input on how parent involvement funds should be spent;
provide input on how school staff can work with parents as equal partners in their child's educational process;
volunteer at their child's school; and participate in parent-teacher conferences.
